WIFE FEARS HUSBAND EMBALMED ALIVE; PROBE DEATH MYSTERY

Body of Man Who Always Feared Living Burial Hastily Prepared for Grave.

Autopsy to Be Made by Medical Examiner—Heart Failure Given as Cause.

Investigation of the strange death of Richard H. Archibald, whose body was delivered to an undertaker without his wife's knowledge, is demanded by Mrs. Archibald, who declares she will fight to the end to have the mystery solved.

On hearing Mrs. Archibald's story, Medical Examiner McDonald ordered the body removed to the City Hospital morgue, where he will conduct an autopsy this afternoon.

Never ill in twenty years, Archibald died suddenly a short time after expressing his fear that he would be embalmed while in a state of coma. His mail, while being prepared for burial, suddenly set up in her coffin and lived for many years after.

Despite the fact that he owned two bungalow houses, in each of which he had several rooms, Archibald died at No. 11 Bond street, where his wife declares he had been living for many years.

Mrs. Archibald's first knowledge of her husband's death was when Undertaker Alton Rogers of No. 11 Bond street brought the body to the house at No. 602 Massachusetts avenue and told her that he had been ordered to arrange for the funeral.

Had Room Unknown to Family

Archibald was fifty-two years of age and conducted two lodging houses at No. 602 Massachusetts avenue and No. 100 Harrison avenue. Without the knowledge of any member of his family he had been occupying a room at No. 11 Bond street. He took this room because, according to Mrs. Kennedy, the landlady, Mrs. Archibald was unaware of the fact until she was informed by the police.

He left his home on Massachusetts avenue yesterday with the intention of going to the other house to see how things were. He was in the heat of health. At an early hour today Mrs. Archibald was aroused by a knock on the door. She opened the door and was informed by an undertaker that her husband's body was in the room.

Instantly Mrs. Archibald thought of the remark her husband had made. She asked the undertaker if the body had been embalmed. He said that it had.

Mrs. Archibald asked where he had been taken. He said he had been taken to the house at No. 602 Massachusetts avenue and told her that he had been ordered to arrange for the funeral.

Pronounced Dead of Heart Disease.

Dr. Cate says that he was called to the Bond street house by the landlady and found that Archibald had died of heart disease. He was lying in bed with his head under his pillow.

Dr. Cate thought that the death was due to heart disease. He was called to the house by the landlady and found that Archibald had died of heart disease. He was lying in bed with his head under his pillow.

There is something wrong with his death. I gave strict orders to the undertaker not to embalm the body until the doctor was called, but in vain. He threatened me by saying, "I shall not allow the body to be taken from the house until I have been called and have made an investigation."

RICHARD H. ARCHIBALD, WHO, WIFE FEARS, WAS EMBALMED ALIVE.

This photograph of the man whose mysterious death has caused an appeal to the authorities shows him in uniform as a Knight of Malta.

There are not many men connected with my husband's death. He was a man who never drank anything and who always took the very best of care of himself. He has never been sick for a day during the last twenty years. The day that he died, he left me at 2:30 p. m. in perfect health with the intention of going to the other house to see how things were. The next day I saw him in the morning when he was lying in bed with his head under his pillow. He was dead.

There are not many men connected with my husband's death. He was a man who never drank anything and who always took the very best of care of himself. He has never been sick for a day during the last twenty years. The day that he died, he left me at 2:30 p. m. in perfect health with the intention of going to the other house to see how things were. The next day I saw him in the morning when he was lying in bed with his head under his pillow. He was dead.

CHARGES PROPOSED IN CHELSEA GRAFT

Accused and Accusers Girded for To-night's Session of the Aldermen.

COMMITTEE UNDER FIRE

To-night's meeting of the Chelsea Board of Aldermen, when the report of the committee on investigation of graft is to be brought up, will be the most sensational session in many years.

More charges are to be made. Further allegations of graft will be brought out, and it will be the whole Board that will be called upon to act on the charges made by the committee on investigation, which committee reported that five Aldermen be reported for graft, but charges will be made against some members of the committee.

Alfred William L. King, at whose investigation and on whose statement that "graft was rampant in Chelsea" the committee was appointed, and who is one of the five Aldermen reported for graft, declares that he will defend himself to the last.

Will Demand Apology.

Aldermen Charles H. Black, another of the five whose departure from city affairs was recommended, will demand an apology for refusing to "go to Chelsea and see what men's body."

Alfred William L. King, chairman of the graft investigation committee will defend himself against all charges that may be made against him.

There is a determined and malicious effort to punish me for bringing in the report and on the charges made by the committee on investigation, which committee reported that five Aldermen be reported for graft, but charges will be made against some members of the committee.
